

Supporting Comfort and Performance Through Ergonomic Task Seating

Please join us to hear “Supporting Comfort and Performance Through Ergonomic Task Seating” by our distinguished speaker, Renisha Butcher, as she will discuss:

This session provides an overview of key ergonomic considerations related to task seating in today’s workplace. Attendees will explore how seating design, adjustability, and user interaction influence comfort, posture, and task performance. The presentation will highlight practical examples of ergonomic seating solutions and discuss how thoughtful chair features can support a variety of users and work environments. Attendees will gain insight into how ergonomic seating solutions can be applied across a range of work environments, using real-world product examples. The presentation will include examples of ergonomic task seating solutions and practical considerations for selecting and using chairs effectively.

About our Speaker...

Renisha, Client Engagement Manager at Via Seating, brings an applied, real-world perspective to ergonomics through hands-on experience working with ergonomic task seating solutions. By partnering closely with ergonomists and workplace professionals, she has developed a strong understanding of how seating design, adjustability, and user behavior impact comfort, posture, and long-term performance.

In her role at Via Seating, Renisha has expanded her knowledge of workplace ergonomics through involvement in continuing education-focused initiatives and professional presentations. Renisha’s presentation will explore key ergonomic considerations in task seating and how they translate into meaningful outcomes for users.
