Office, laboratory, and other work environments continue to undergo massive technical and organizational changes, offering opportunities for practicing ergonomists to grow, or fall behind. The workplace of the future will not only incorporate different furniture and computer input designs, but will call upon ergonomists to collaborate closely with procurement, engineering, facilities, occupational medicine and nursing, and other specialties. This interactive one-day seminar will present key aspects of two remarkably successful ergonomics programs, at Genentech and Pixar, in discussions of:

- What drives ergonomics problems & success at Pixar?
- Ergonomics guidelines for furniture selection and mobile technology
- Introduction to Lean management techniques at Genentech
- Ergo Walk-throughs to support moves and flexible work environments
- How Pixar's occupational health program prevents injury and promotes recovery
- What every physician should know about office ergonomics
- Seating strategies to fit reality

The opportunities for ergonomists to have a 'seat at the table' in a wide variety of public and private organizations are greater today than at any time in the past 40 years. We can, and must, participate with others and speak their language to make ourselves heard. The result will be the inclusion of ergonomics in a new 'business as usual'.

Come and learn from the people who are already doing it!
